MARBLE IN KITCHEN COUNTER TOPS

Customer understands and agrees that marble is not recommended for kitchen counter tops. Marble is subject to scratches and stains from everyday normal kitchen use. Marble will require frequent maintenance by a professional marble maintenance company in order to maintain the look that is present at the original install. Marble is subject to etching and staining from a variety of sources, including but not limited to: acidic based foods and products, wine, coffee and olive oil.

DRY TREAT must be applied to the surface to assist in maintenance and protection. Dry Treat is included in any contract or pricing the customer may have received for a kitchen. The DRY TREAT 25 YEAR WARRANTY does not apply to this material.

WHITE FANTASY ON COUNTER TOPS

White Fantasy is a dolomitic marble that is subject to etching and staining from a variety of sources, including but not limited to: wine, coffee, olive oil, water treatments, and household cleaners. White Fantasy will also contain visible fissures. A fissure is defined as a narrow opening or crack or visible vein that appears to be a crack. A void is an area on the surface that does not accept polish because of mineral content. The fact that this material contains these unique qualities does not affect the structural integrity of the stone. These are normal characteristics of White Fantasy/Super White and are not considered defects.

DRY TREAT must be applied to the surface to assist in maintenance and protection. Dry Treat is included in any contract or pricing the customer may have received for a kitchen. The DRY TREAT 25 YEAR WARRANTY does not apply to this material.
